Gospel Reflection

The readings for the 23rd Sunday in Ordinary Time focus on a conversion of heart. We are encouraged to overcome sinfulness and to go beyond merely following the letter of the law and to truly love. And we are to support each other along the path to holiness and help each other overcome our sinfulness.

The Gospel centers on resolving conflicts within the Christian community. It's one of the few instances where Jesus explicitly mentions the term "church" in Matthew's Gospel. We catch glimpses of the challenges faced by the early Christian believers.

In Matthew 18:15-20, Jesus tackles a common issue: disputes among church members. He provides a method to handle conflicts fairly. First, address the matter privately. If unresolved, involve a few witnesses. Only then should the larger community step in. And if necessary, there's a provision for exclusion from the community.

Notably, Jesus doesn't shy away from the reality of disagreement in the church. He acknowledges the presence of conflict and mistakes and offers a practical approach to manage them. Crucially, the passage concludes with a message of assurance: Jesus is present within the community, guiding its actions. Decisions rooted in prayer are backed by divine support. Through this teaching, a framework for addressing disputes is established, with an underlying message of unity and divine guidance.

Reflection Questions

- How comfortable am I in confronting wrongdoing, whether in personal interactions or within my community?
- Reflect on any instances where I have witnessed or experienced conflict. What could have been done differently to address the situation in a fair and constructive manner?
- Are there any injustices in my community that require my attention? How can I initiate or participate in efforts to address these issues?
